

Women, Literature, and Science

LTEN 120 – Instructor: Carolin Boettcher
Summer Session I – MW 8-10:50AM

In this course, we will explore the connections between literature and science and how women made use of different styles of writing to navigate these different discourses. What modes of writing did women in particular employ when writing about scientific and philosophical ideas?

Satisfies the following requirements:

LTEN majors: British Literature post-1660

WL&C majors: History Concentration

Revelle College: 1 course for the Humanities minor

Eleanor Roosevelt College: Upper Division Writing G.E.

Earl Warren College: 1 course for Humanities PofC/ Area Studies