

LTEN 144: Migration and Identity in the British Novel

TuTh 9:30am-10:50am
WLH 2208
Instructor: Ameeth Vijay

Over the course of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries, the United Kingdom has become home to immigrants from all over the world, particularly in the aftermath of decolonization. In this course we will read literature that explores the experience of migration and its challenges to a sense of identity and belonging.
