“The Importance of Being Aryan: Iranian National Identity and the Nazi’s Nuremberg Race Laws”

Date and Time: Tuesday April 23, 11am to 12:30

Location: Room 155, Literature Building, UCSD

Dr. Rafi is currently a lecturer in the Humanities at UC Irvine. His research is rooted in transnational studies and is interested in question on national identity and intellectual history. He is affiliated with the Critical Theory Institute and the Samuel Jordan Center for Persian Studies and Culture, both at UC Irvine. The Thyssen Foundation, the Leibniz-Institute, and the University of California Chancellor’s Fund have supported his work on Germany and Iran. His writings have been published with Telos in the United States and the University of Strasbourg Press in Germany and France.

Co-sponsors: Third World Studies and Program for the Study of Religion