OBSTRUCTIONS TO PROGRESS: INDIGENOUS RELATIONALITY, SETTLER MODERNITY, AND RESISTANCE TO TELESCOPE EXPANSION ON MAUNA A WĀKEA

Friday, March 13, 2020
@ 12p-1:30p
Cross-Cultural Center (ArtSpace)

Iokepa Casumbal-Salazar is a Kanaka Maoli scholar of Indigenous politics, settler colonialism, postcolonial theory, Hawaiian studies, Indigenous critical theory, race, gender, culture, and power. He is currently an assistant professor of Native American and Indigenous Studies in the Center for the Study of Culture, Race, and Ethnicity and the Department of Anthropology at Ithaca College.

His forthcoming book is entitled First Light: Indigenous Struggle and Astronomy on Mauna a Wākea.

For more information, contact
Erin Suzuki (esuzuki@ucsd.edu)